Property Description

Almost 31 acres of green Costa Rican mountainside in La Palma, just off the road between San Isidro de El General and Dominical Beach. There's ample water from the two mountain springs located on the property. Electricity is also available from the adjacent public road. There is one large building site with 360 degree view and multiple smaller ones. The property boasts some gorgeous views of the surrounding mountains and valley. It would make a great spot for a private mountainside estate, or carve out that special spot for yourself and subdivide and sell the rest, making your original investment back! The location is great, as you're only 10 minutes from downtown San Isidro and about a half hour from the beach. San Isidro is Costa Rica's second largest and fastest growing city and is the gateway to the southern zone. The southern zone contains the last of Costa Rica's untapped wildernesses and as it rises in popularity, so will property values with great locations, like this one.
